CHIMES

1974 Vol. 36

Mount Saint Mary Academy
North Plainfield, New Jersey

Foreword

Not a day in our lives goes by without some form of celebration. We rejoice over happy events: beginnings or ends, things new or traditional. We make new friends and leave the old behind; we embark on unprecedented adventures and discover the wisdom of the ages; we live and we become; each is a reason for celebrating. Students, faculty, and administration share these happy moments which leave deep impressions on our lives.

We have tried to capture this spirit of celebration in Chimes '74; it can never be repeated.

Unless there are beginnings, there can be no growth and no development. There can be no new discoveries and no forming of traditions. Without beginnings there can be no Mount.

Among the prime forces behind these beginnings are the faculty who meet regularly to discuss abstract ideas and to form them into concrete actions. School philosophy, the community of faith, the goals of Christian education—these challenged the faculty during the opening days of school.

The Sisters of Mercy celebrated the beginning of another 100 years of service, and the Mount certainly didn't let the occasion go unnoticed. The students paid tribute to the Sisters by surprising them with a party in Mercy Hall. Highlighting the event was a student fashion show which marked the changes within the order's style of dress.

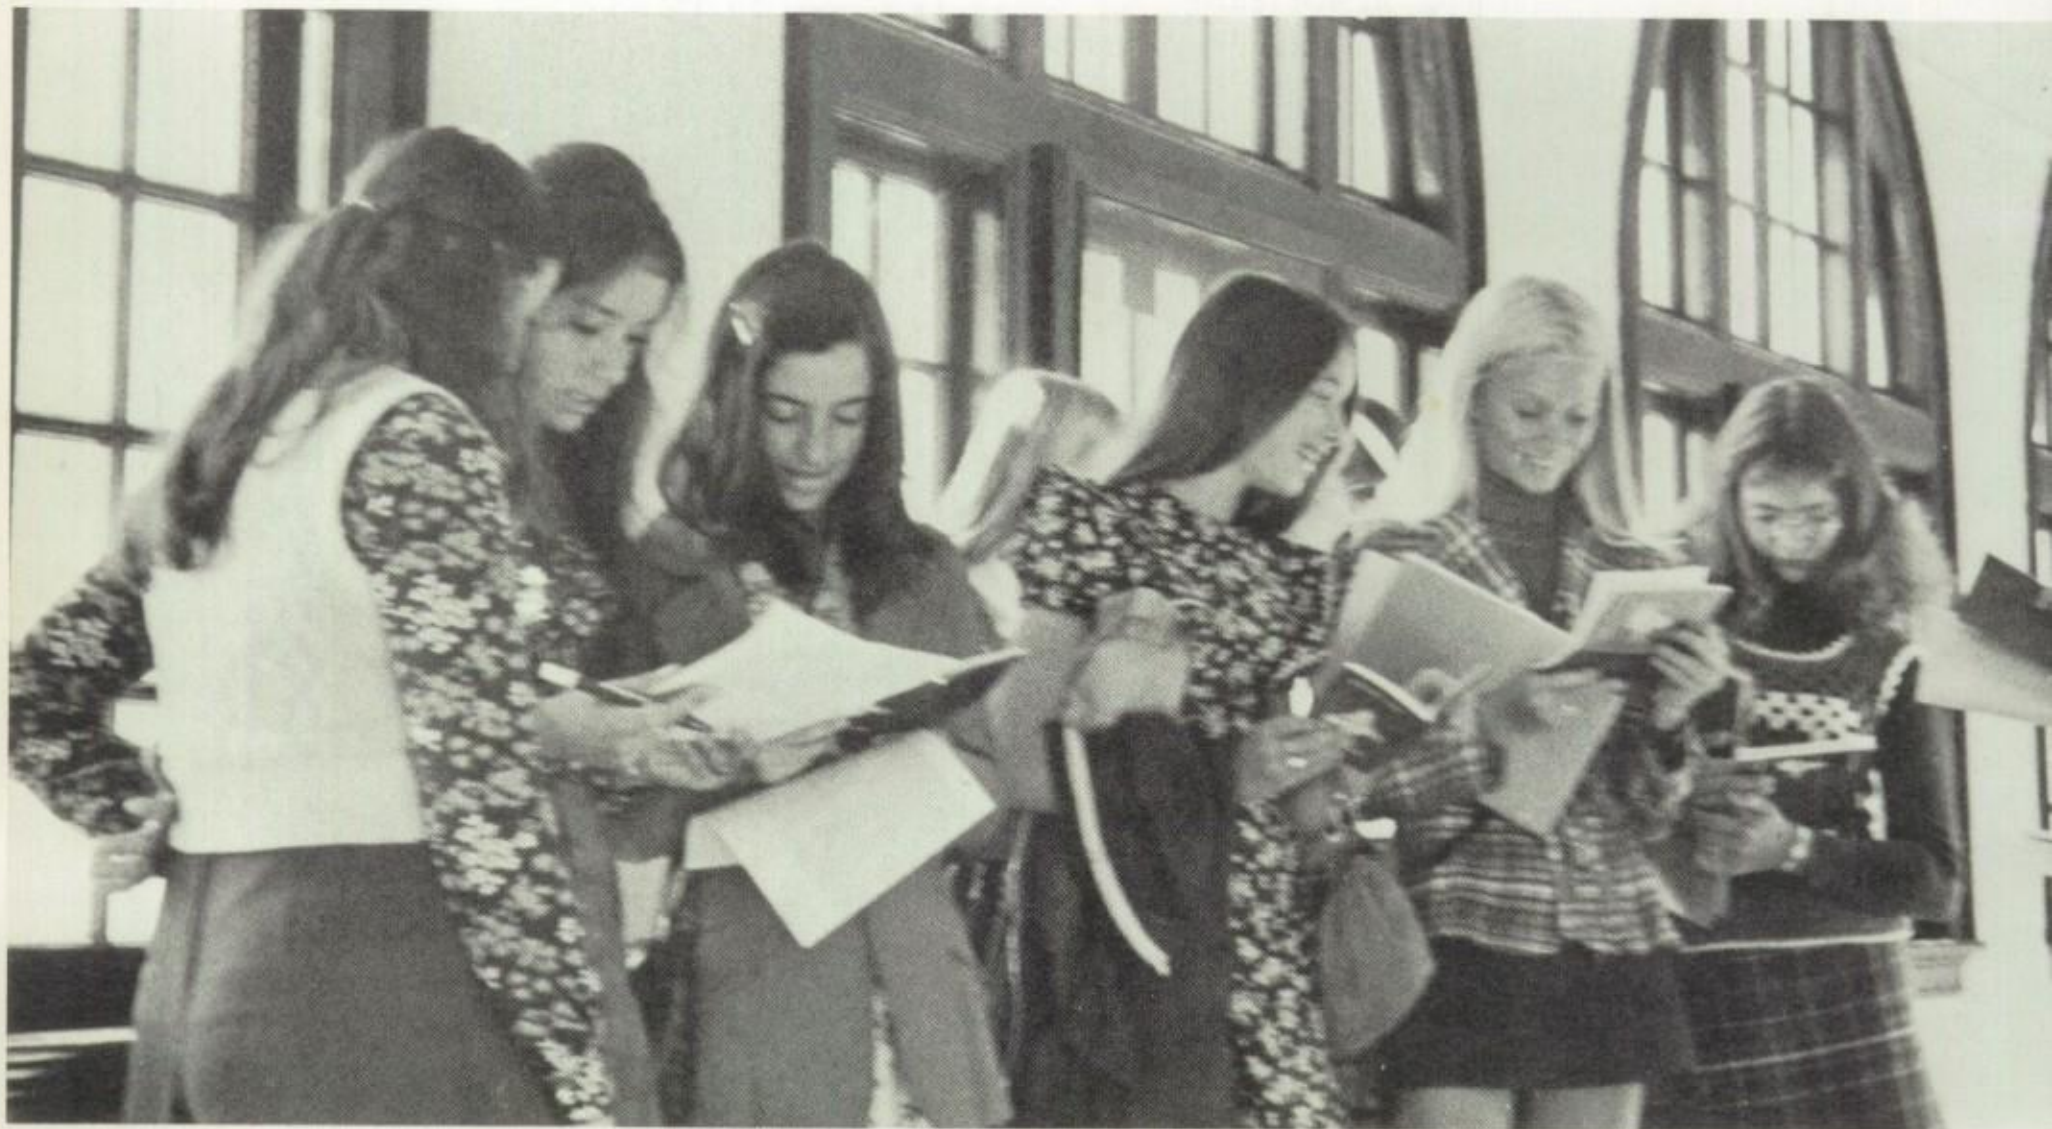

During the days of orientation, Student Council guides familiarized new students with the vast grounds and buildings. The enthusiasm of Freshmen and new upperclassmen was as invigorating and refreshing as their new uniforms.

In the spirit of "mom's lib," mothers of Mount students embarked on a year of service and friendship. During an afternoon tea, mothers had the opportunity to socialize and to plan future activities. As a result of this planning the mothers were able to become involved and to perform invaluable services as paraprofessionals. With their clerical assistance, teachers had more time to help students individually.

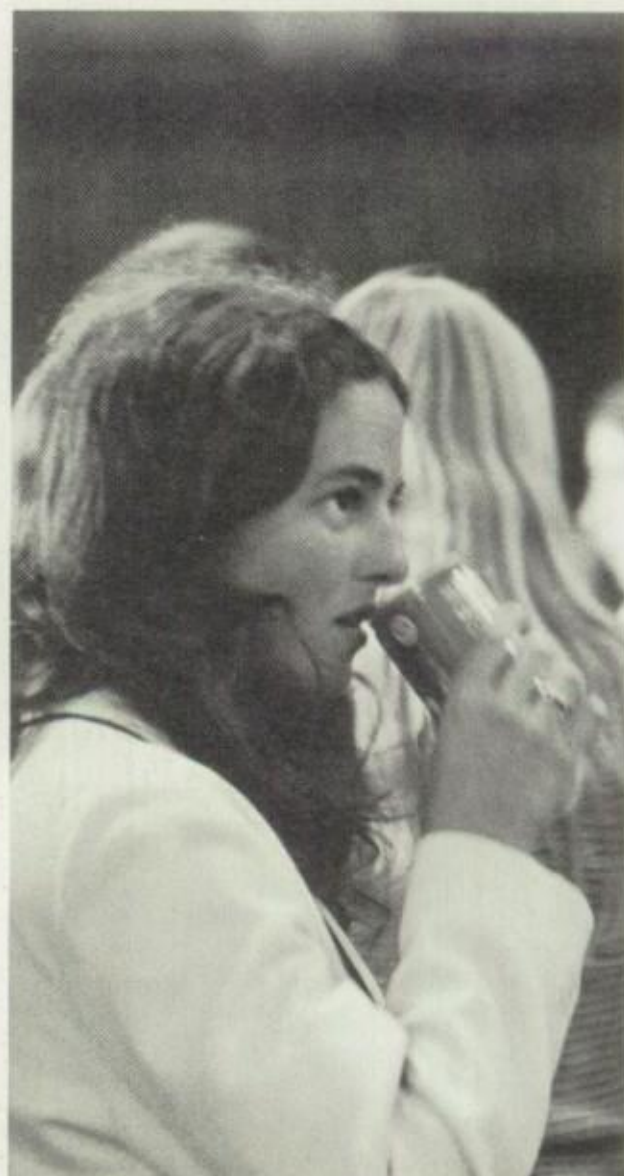

Having received accreditation by the Middle States Evaluation Committee, the Academy was rewarded for its hard work. For this once-in-a-decade event, a thirteen-member committee arrived at the Mount to rate the community and curriculum. The results were laudatory, with Sister Mary Kerwin, students, and faculty sharing in the commendations of the group.

Inadvertently, beginnings become future traditions. New beginnings continually dawned at the Mount to set the scene for a year of celebration.

Senior guides help new students become familiar with the rules and regulations, and share with them some inside information on Mount life.

A representative from the O'Hara Company aids Mrs. Osiecki in purchasing the new uniform while Mrs. Devine and Dolores wait to submit their orders.

In anticipation of meeting her little sister, Megan Fitzgerald hopes that things will go better with Coke.

Orientation, Big-Little Sister Party Highlight

Freshmen Beginnings

During a break in the festivities, Lisa Mooney tells little sister Pam Lucas the pros and cons of being a freshman.

Freshman Maureen Martiak wonders if every day at the Mount is like this as she finds herself caught between the zany antics of juniors Joanne Cantalupo and Patty Welsh.

While enjoying their tea at the social, Mrs. Michael Scanlon, Mrs. John Richnavsky, and Mrs. Albert Lacy compare notes on their ideas for future Mothers' Club projects.

Mrs. Edward Blazowski awaits the guests' arrival at the First Annual Mothers' Club Tea.

Sister Dorothy Lazarick and Mrs. Catherine DeFillipo await the chance to capture the mothers on film.

Mrs. Caffrey, Mrs. Marks and Sister Catherine Mindling try to claim Mrs. Howerdel as their own department assistant.

Mothers' Club, Card Party Strengthen Parent Involvement

Miss Miller, chairman of the Card Party, tries to explain to a doubting Kathy Fiesler why she should win all the prizes.

Mrs. Symanski turns down an offer of assistance from Mr. Skrynas while Mr. Symanski acts as referee.

Mercy Celebrates 100 Years of Service . . .

At the centenary celebration given by the students, Debbie Venezia, Lisa Palfy, and Mary Hanlon assure Sister Mary Sharon that a few extra calories won't hurt.

Laurie Bechhold, Eileen Burke, Marylou Walsh, Ivette Santaella and Pat Perry model habits of the future, the past and the present during centenary festivities.

... Renews Accreditation

Middle States Chairman, Mr. Robert Van Allen, concludes the committee's evaluation by commending our Alma Mater and offering suggestions for improvement.

Busy evaluators take a few minutes to see if their impressions of the student body correspond.

"We've got a secret!" The members of the Middle States committee smilingly wait to present their evaluations to students and faculty.

Innovations Add Vitality to Changing Mount Scene

Vice-Principal Sister Mary Shaun prepares the agenda for the day in her new office.

Debbie Covicz, engrossed in her game of pool, concentrates in spite of the comments of onlookers.

Mrs. Carmen Gumina and daughter Kim, Class of '73, visit the renovated Health Clinic which Mr. Gumina financed in appreciation for Kim's years at the Mount.

Sister Joan McKeon, M.S.M., Admissions Director, prepares slides for her recruiting lectures.

Tradition

Nothing that was worthy in the past departs; no truth or goodness realized by man ever dies, or can die; but is all still here, and, recognized or not, lives and walks through endless changes.

Thomas Carlyle eloquently expresses Chimes' celebration of Tradition. Though change is "worthy" and necessary, so is man's need to find and to retain what was true and good in the past.

The Student Council, following Mount tradition, sponsored seasonal parties and dances. The Mount community was able to dance at "Home for the Holidays," don imaginative costumes at the Halloween party, and exchange season's greetings during the annual Christmas party. Student Council Week provided the girls with special opportunities to celebrate "time."

Expressing their spirit of appreciation, students gathered in Mercy Hall for Sister Mary Kerwin's feast day. Selections from Concert Choir and readings by students and faculty highlighted the celebration.

As juniors received their class rings, their responsibilities as upperclassmen were more fully emphasized. The songs and readings chosen by the Class of '75 made the Mass highly personal and unifying.

The National Theatre Company returned to the Mount with a lively presentation of The Age of Shaw. St. Joseph's, Metuchen gave Mount starlets a chance to shine in You Can't Take It With You and How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying. Members of our Mount Drama Club proved to be competent actresses in their production of Twelve Angry Women.

The spiritual aspect of Mount life was strengthened as a result of two days of retreat. Whether at Georgian Court with the seniors or at the Academy with underclassmen, the atmosphere was the same, one of reflection on the past and planning for the future.

Boarders, too, have become a major part of Mount tradition. Many enjoyable moments were shared at evening Masses, sleigh rides down the hill, study hours and seasonal parties.

No matter what the future holds, we will always rely on tradition for new life builds on old and today is merely the result of yesterday.

Students Reveal Their Gratitude

to Bermuda-Bound Sister Mary Kerwin

Concert Choir members Lorraine Garafola, Ann Kasyan, and Donna Harding use song as their mode of thanking Sister Mary Kerwin.

Captivated by the jubilation of the day, Sister Mary Kerwin's nieces watch feast day activities with fixed eyes.

Father Clark and Lisa Palfy share some reflective words from Le Petit Prince in honoring Sister Mary Kerwin.

Newly Installed Council Shares a Weekend of Discovery

"How can you just sit there while I do all the work?" asks Dawn McFadden as Marylou Walsh fumbles with a flimsy excuse.

Lisa Mooney wonders if Debbie Venezia's culinary skills will satisfy her ravenous appetite.

Fran O'Hara and Ivette Santaella take time to read their installation pledge while Sue Bertucci assures Miss Ferrari that the assembly will go smoothly.

Valerie Ludwig hopes that no one is watching as she helps herself to a second serving of waffles.

Sister Mary Kerwin presents Mary Hanlon and Debbie Venezia with their Council ribbons, representing the responsibilities they have undertaken.

"Can I help it if I'm a Christian?" Androcles asks his friends during the National Theater Company's production of Androcles and the Lion.

By George! Professor Higgins has created the ultimate "fair lady."

Caesar tries to convince a fearful Cleopatra that the Romans are not all that bad.

Director Ampy Napoles casts attention to Colleen Curtis' portrayal of an angry wife while other actresses Mary Ann Balbach, Cathy Fiesler, Ava Barnes, and Betsy Wachter look on.

Pros and Amateurs Enliven MSM Stage

The richly-clad Bitty Larson appears disdainful at the idea that You Can't Take It With You.

Brigid Henderson offers Fran O'Hara a sample of her "love dreams."

The atmosphere of the great outdoors inspires members of the Drama Club, Rhonda Koshensky, Isiling Mack, Judy Wickel, Lisa Horning, Kelly Caro and Yamilee Suarez in their preparation of Twelve Angry Women.

Carol Gilbert appears doubtful as Chris McDonough tries to convince her to marry him.

H.O.P.E., Boarders Provide Ghoulishly Good Time

Juniors bug judges and crawl away with H.O.P.E.'s best group prize.

Linda Tomaro, Ava Barnes, Eileen Crowley, and Maureen Bischoff stand on "winners' row" at H.O.P.E.'s party.

Sister Mary Anne Carling and friend watch musical chair antics at boarders' party.

Good luck in the future. Study hard
(you always do.) Love, Gabe

Busy doing their part for Student Council Week, freshmen prepare bags of popcorn, their treat to the school.

Student Council members from local schools discuss the pros-and-cons of class privileges at the Exchange Night.

Miss Ferrari and Sister Carol, co-moderators of Student Council, discuss plans for an independent study day during Student Council Week.

Moments Tick Swiftly Past During Student Council Week

"... and now I will turn this string into a rabbit," exclaims the mystical "Whodunit" Marylou Walsh as Barbara Kerner and Sister Carol Conly look on in awe.

Laurie Bechhold, Senior Class Miss Congeniality, recovers from shock as she receives congratulations from Mary Hanlon.

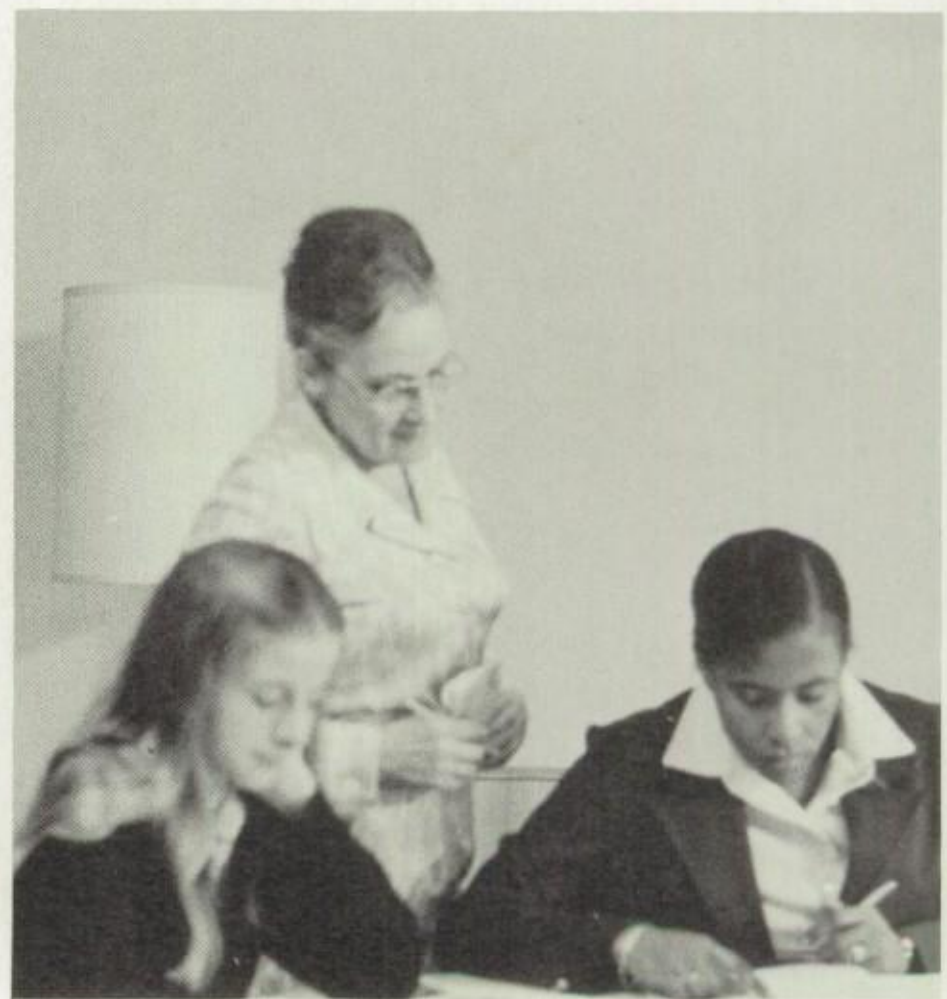

Student Council President Debbie Venezia searches for approval on her proposed seating arrangement for the opening Mass.

There's No Place Like Home—But Boarding Comes Close

Mary Liz Wachter presents the theme of the liturgy during the weekly Mass in Senior Lounge.

Mrs. Messinger chats with Mrs. Emigio Cabrera on a typical Sunday night in Gabriel Hall while Sister Joan checks on incoming students.

Mrs. Edna Engel, Gabriel Hall house-mother, assists Lisa Horning and Ava Barnes with their assignments during the daily study hour.

M.S.M. boarders gather to offer thanks with Father Clark.

Leisa Vasquez and Mary Lopez take advantage of the silence during the boarders' study to complete the assignments before the nightly noise and confusion begin.

Snowbound boarders head for the hills and their sleighs.

"Knit one, purl two, triple crochet six . . ." Sister Thaddeus assures Marguerite Columbano that making an afghan is as easy as pie.

Nicte Foster spares her dorm-mates' ears as she practices her scales in a vacant room.

Father George accepts the symbolic candle offerings from Patty Casey and Peggy Messina.

Chris Paul, Patty Behan, and Meg Valnoski use their free time during Senior retreat to stump Barbara Sesta in the game "Whoops, Johnny."

Discovery . . .

*To see a world in a grain of sand
And a heaven in a wildflower.*

William Blake knew the exciting experience of discovery—of gaining knowledge about worlds within worlds, about heavens within the world. At M.S.M. we, too, have this opportunity to discover everyday.

Teachers lead their students into worlds of experience through language, literature, mathematics, religion, science, and the arts. Classes not only offer students the opportunity to discover together, but also the chance to pursue their own individual interests.

Students who excel in academic and leadership ability are elected to Honor Societies and the Cum Laude Society. Here they learn the joy of helping others through their tutoring service and through aiding teachers in resource centers.

Sister Dorothy Lazarick and Sister Alicia Callan provide guidance services which enable girls to choose courses in accordance with their future plans. Frequent visits by representatives aid students in making their selection of the right college and course of study for them.

Co-curricular activities take student ideas and interests beyond the limitations of the classroom. Field trips and tutoring enable girls to incorporate their courses into the every day world. For those with domestic talents, the Gourmet and Sewing Clubs challenge their culinary and stitching skills.

Each day, students leave the hill with the knowledge that they have discovered a new world, and that tomorrow they will share some of the many treasures it contains.

Activity

Discovery beyond the classroom is an important part of any education. The Mount's extra-curricular program, therefore, attempts to round out our learning experience by providing meaningful organizations which have as their main goal the maturity of the individual's creativity and the group's sense of co-operation.

For girls who have a way with words, Peeks, Chimes, and Echoes provide a means for self-expression. The newspaper, yearbook, and literary magazine combine individual inspiration and team effort as their staffs meet the challenge of deadlines.

Creative thinking and co-operation are also the hallmarks of an active Student Council. Under the leadership of Debbie Venezia and the guidance of Sister Carol Conly and Miss Linda Ferrari, Council sponsored many enjoyable and successful events. Student Council Week, the candy drive, monthly mixers, and the annual Christmas party are only a few indications of an active Council.

The Girls' Athletic Association offered a variety of programs for enthusiastic and capable competitors. The varsity teams achieved victory in basketball and tennis, while, on the intramural level, girls participated in bowling, softball and basketball. Skiing, swimming and horseback riding were also available to help girls maintain their physical fitness.

Musical talent was as plentiful as athletic prowess. Concert Choir and Glee Club met regularly under the direction of Sister Mary Daniel, and Mr. James Biddlecome returned to conduct the growing instrumental group. The results were evident in the beautiful Christmas Concert and Spring Musicale.

Whether in the area of journalism, creative writing, athletics, or music, the Mount celebrated activity this year more than ever before.

MSM Varsity Teams Aim for the Stars

Scorekeeper Joanne Cantalupo tries her luck at bribing the referee.

"Now here's the plan . . ." says Sister Carol as she prepares Barbara Mathers, Dawn McFadden, and Isiling Mack for the final quarter of their game against Somerset County.

To the tune of "Jump It Up," Pat Peter stretches in the hope that the ball may fall into the waiting hands of Marylou Walsh.

Softball Coach Sister Carolyn Martin checks the batting line-up, while Dawn McFadden and Brigid Henderson warm-up.

Outfielder Lynn Tomaro inspects Barbara Mathers' style as she tries to pitch one over homeplate.

Literary Talents Abound Through Peeks and Echoes

Co-Editor Emilia DiSanto outlines Mount Echoes' pagination which she will present to members Mary Heitz, Mary Lammerding, and Peggy Messina.

Mount Echoes moderator Miss Miller expresses her approval of co-editor Ann Kasyan's latest suggestion for a possible cover.

Happiness is proof-reading copy for the next Mount Echoes deadline.

Lisa Morelli and Pat Peter react to the news that the deadline for all articles is rapidly approaching.

STUDENT

COUNCIL WEEK

Music, bread and wine, buttons, and a slide presentation began this year's Student Council Week. These elements were combined to celebrate a Mass, Monday morning in Mercy Hall. The week was unified by the student theme "Time", which was chosen by the Student Council. Each class attempted to do something different with this theme. The purpose of Student Council Week is to foster an awareness of the Council, and to promote spirit and cooperation among the classes. It provides a change of pace for the students and an opportunity to enjoy as well as participate in what has been planned for them.

Monday was the Juniors' day to plan activities for the school. The Juniors provided cookies in all the student lounges as well as the teacher's lounge. Artistic scrolls with quotations pertaining to the theme, "time", were provided in each homeroom as a remembrance of the week.

On Tuesday the Freshmen initiated "Party Time", and decorated locker lanes, the cafeteria, and the Junior lounge with balloons, streamers, and confetti.

Service

MRS. JOHN CHESTNUT

Constantly striving for a better tomorrow, each member of the Mount community generously gives of herself. It is in serving that we play the role of the "unsung hero," for true service looks for no rewards. Whether the behind-the-scene person is a HOPE member writing a letter to a lonely prisoner or a father in the Fathers' Club improving Mount facilities, the spirit is still the same.

Service is the constant call at the Mount. Setting up chairs for assemblies, awarding prizes at the card party and organizing dances for students are only a few examples of responses made by the Service and Social Committees to service demands.

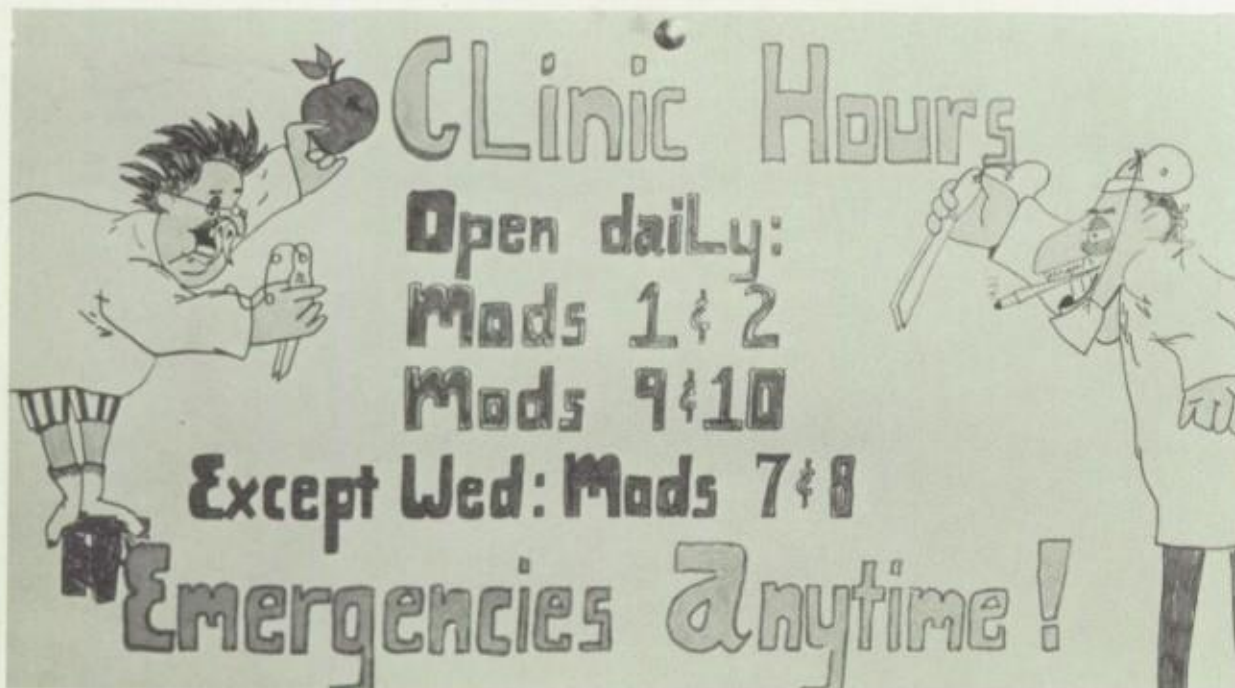

Collecting for the missions, decorating Thanksgiving baskets and selling items at the Christmas bazaar were tasks undertaken by ambitious HOPE members. Their efforts were beneficial in bringing sunshine to many days and to many people.

Checking out library books was only one aspect of the jobs of Miss Alice Egan, Sister Helene and Sister Visita. Librarians bound books, helped students in their research projects and trained library aides. The library was not only a place for study, but also a haven for relaxing and leisurely reading.

Friendly smiles and good food met hungry students everyday in the cafeteria. Led by Mrs. William Hingston, cafeteria workers offered their services during lunch mods as well as at birthdays and other celebrations.

Service was not restricted to the Mount; often it was taken off the hill and into the lives of our neighbors. Girls brought their knowledge to the third grade classes at St. Joseph's Grammar School in North Plainfield and to exceptional children at McAuley Hall. Help was also given to victims in flood-devastated Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania.

Whatever the occasion, those at the Mount are always ready to serve. We thank and "celebrate" them.

Chimes Celebrates Sister Mary Kerwin: Woman of Dedication

Sister Mary Kerwin assures Mary Hanlon that there really is a Santa Claus.

Seven years is a long time to head any organization, especially one as rapidly changing and ever-challenging as an academy. Yet, seven years is but an instant, one brief moment upon which to place the mark of one's life. You, Sister Mary Kerwin, have left your mark on our lives during your seven years as Directress at the Mount.

You have been, most of all, a woman dedicated to dedication. Few know the long hours you have spent, in and out of the office, concerned with our lives, with our growth as women, as students, as Christians. Few know all the burdens of responsibility you have had to carry because you said "yes" to dedication. And few know the tranquility that comes from casting your care totally upon the Lord and letting Him work through you.

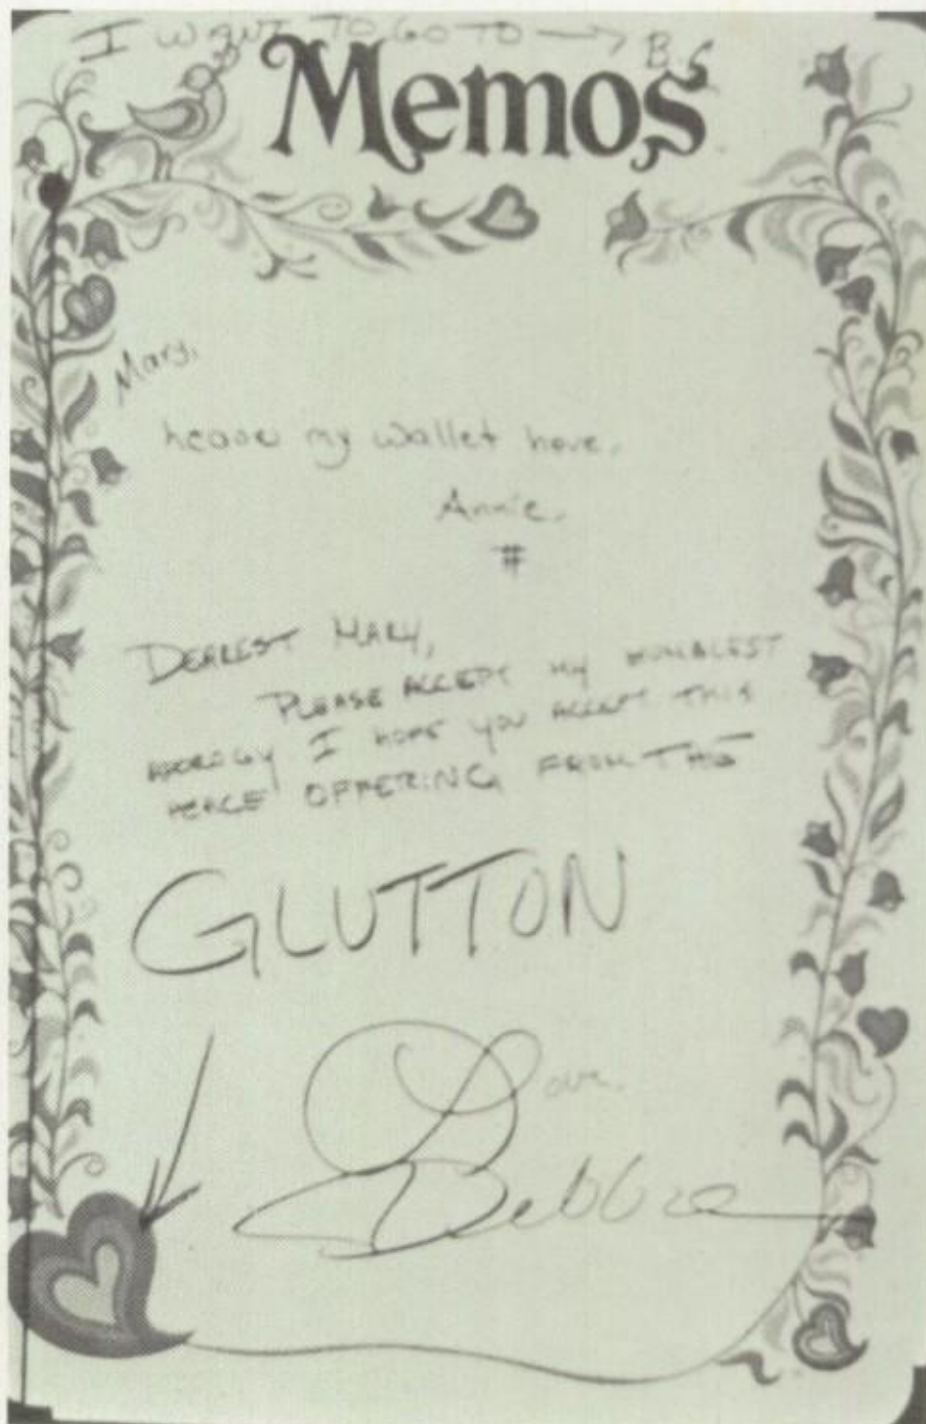

For seven years of dedication to us, we thank you, Sister Mary Kerwin, and we hope that we have left a part of ourselves with you.

During her Feast Day festivities, Sister Mary Kerwin expresses her sincerest thanks to the student body.

Time can sometimes be a friend, pushing us ahead into the future. Or, it can be a conquering foe, taking with it a past spent happily together. Time passes and we can only maintain those moments which manage to escape the clock, those moments called memories. Moments when we were golden flappers; when we went "To Rome with Love"; when we celebrated the reality of our Ring Mass; when we grew up together in love and trust.

Time passes and, as we stand at this moment in time — The Class of '74, Our Gang — we are left with memories of each other and with a promise to keep our one brief, shining moment.

Friends

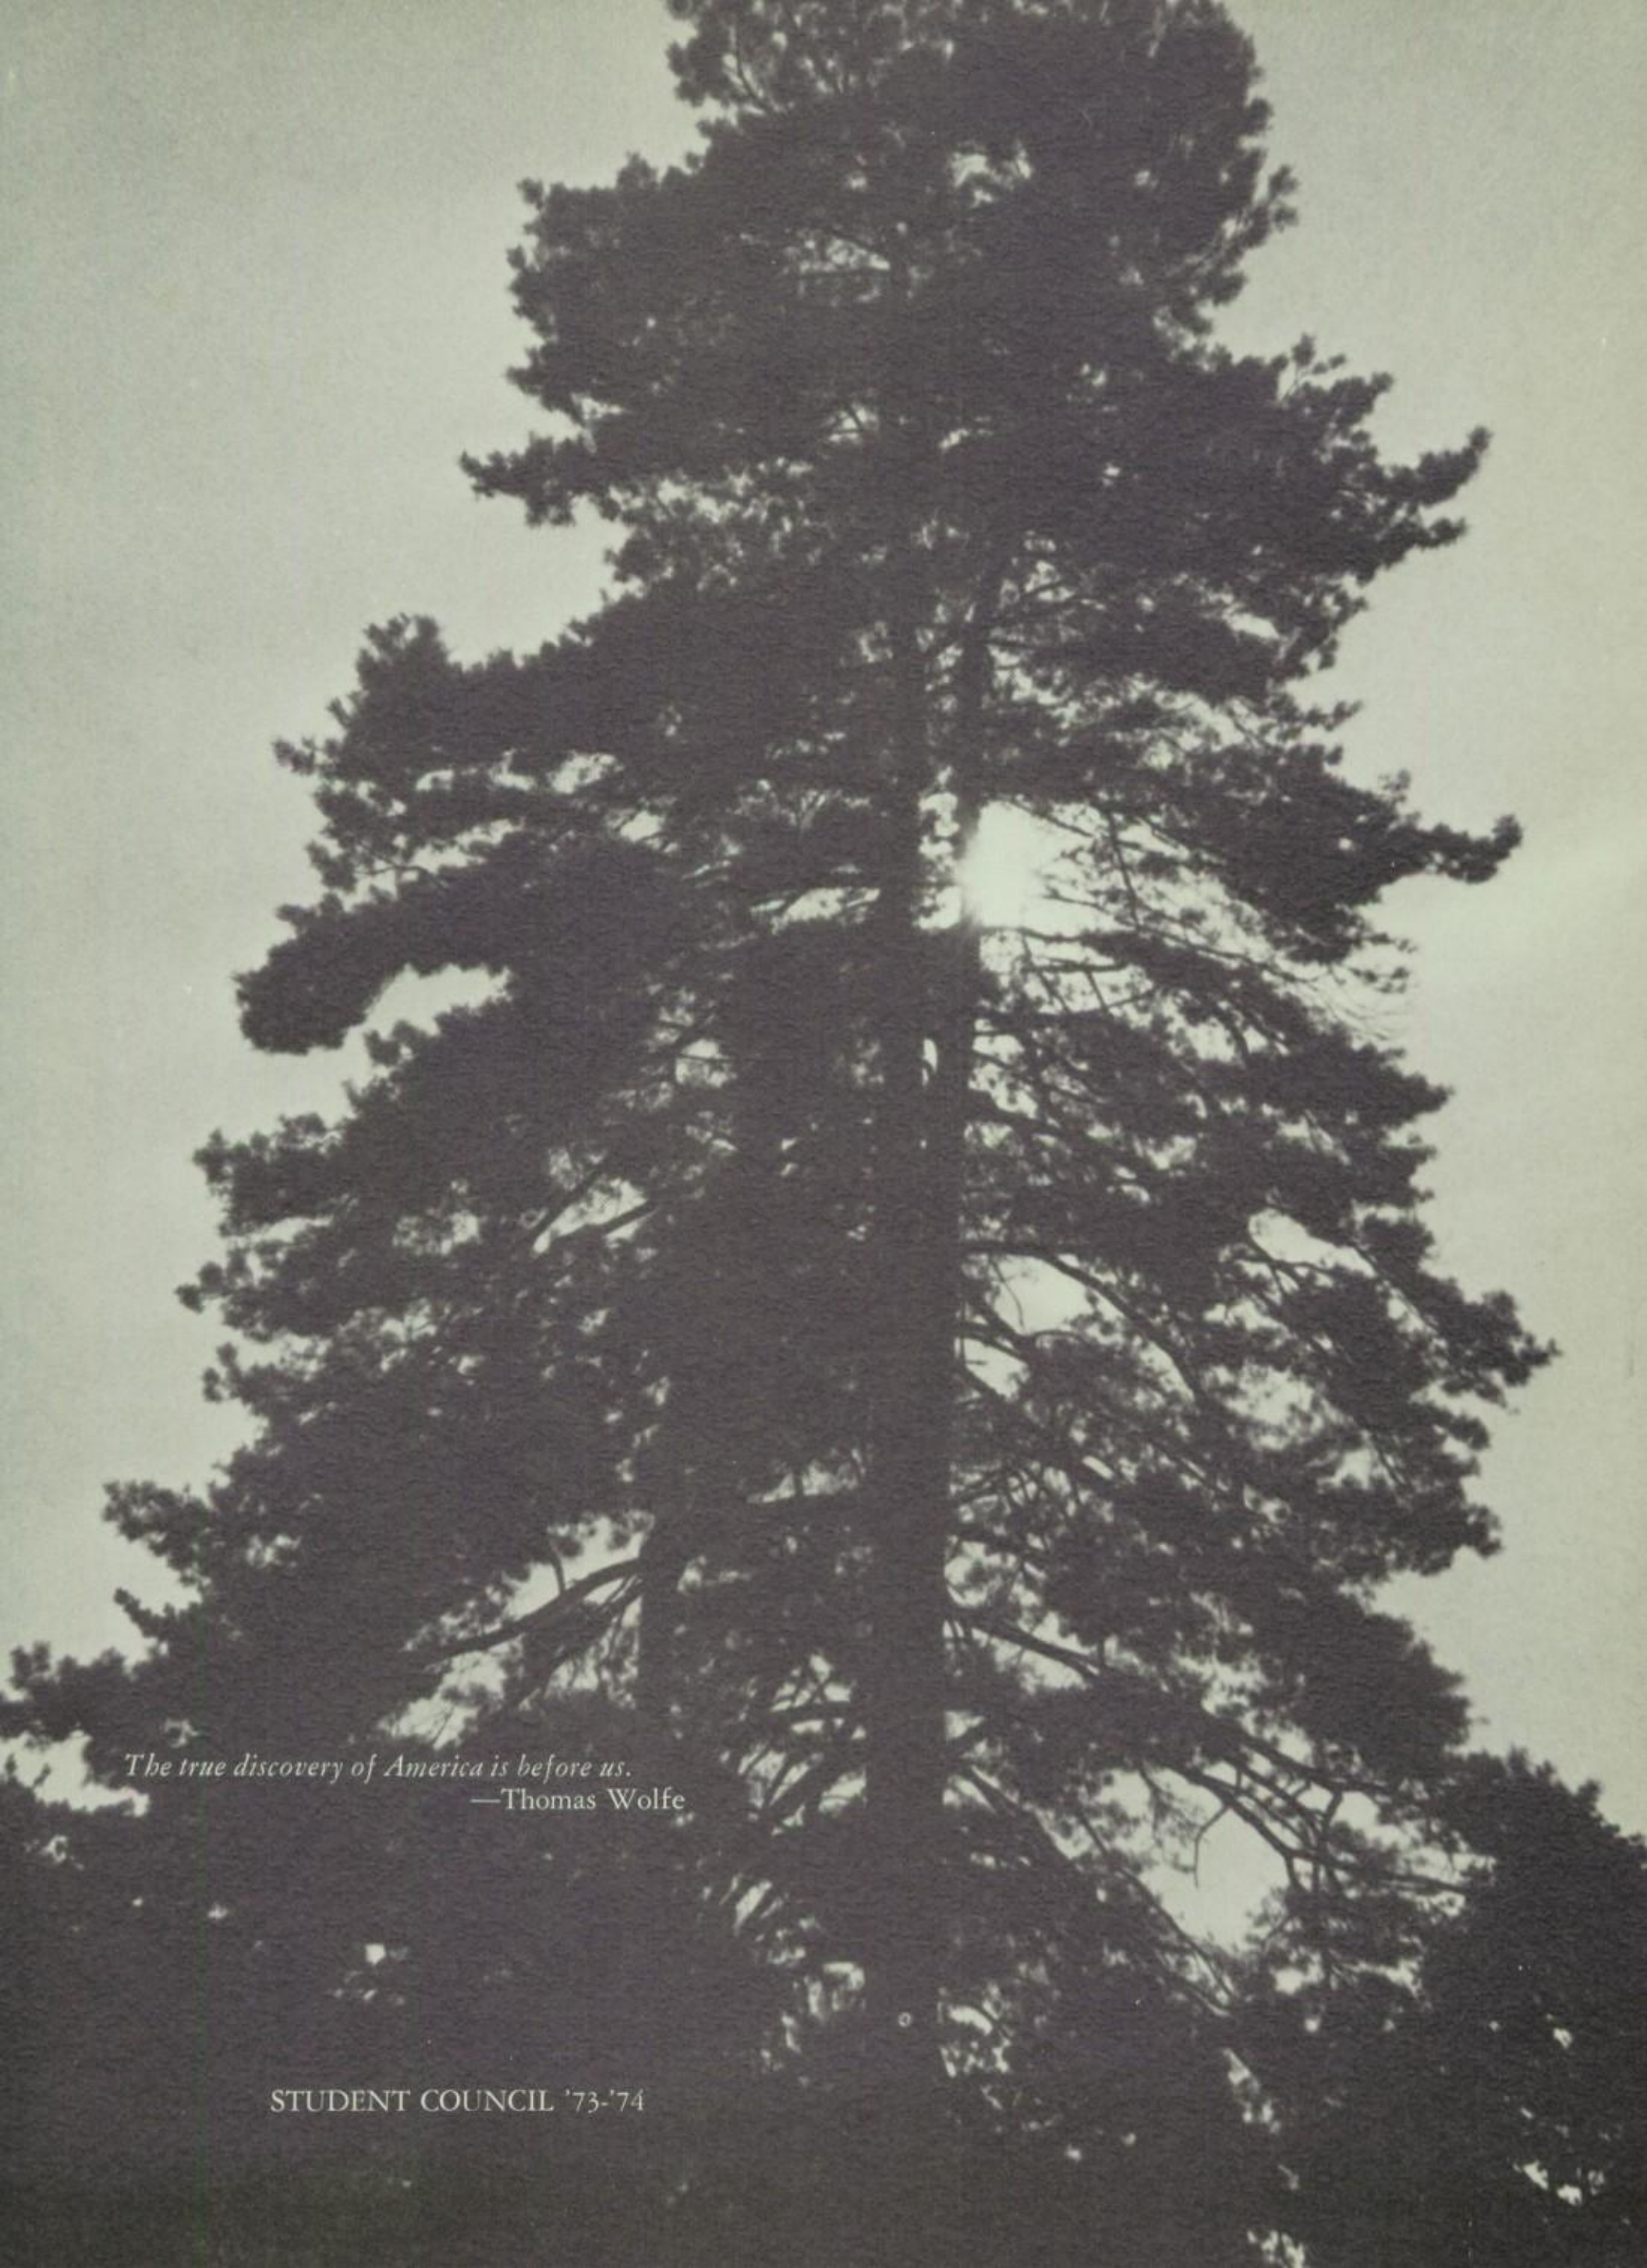

The Mount community is not complete without the care and concern of our parents and friends. We have been fortunate to receive continuous and generous support as we have celebrated this year in Chimes. "Thank you" is a well-worn phrase, but expressed sincerely, it means a great deal. We, the staff of Chimes '74, wish simply, sincerely, and gratefully to say thank you and to hope that all of your lives are joyful celebrations.

MR. AND MRS. PATRICK J. WALSH

I don't know why we are always having to say good-bye to friends. Why can't we get all the people together in the world that we really like and then just stay together? I guess that wouldn't work, someone would leave. Someone always leaves and then we have to say good-bye. I hate good-byes. I know what I need. I need more hellos.

No yearbook can attribute its success to the sole efforts of a hard-working staff. We cannot celebrate Chimes '74 by ourselves; we rely on the support and cooperation of many others.

To Sister Carolyn Martin, who was not just our moderator, but the core of our every endeavor, we extend our love and thanks. The "Coach" was never seen without her trusty camera, as she encouraged us during rough times and celebrated with us after a deadline had been successfully met.

We also celebrate our friends at Normandy Studio, especially Joe DeCaro and Jim Hanlon, who gave of their time and skills to provide us with good pictures of Mount life. We appreciate Mr. Thomas Everett and Rae Publishing Company for helping us with the technical aspects of publishing a yearbook.

Finally, we celebrate Sister Mary Kerwin, for allowing us "to do our thing," and all our teachers, students, and friends who in some way made Chimes '74 possible. We thank all of you and hope that every day of your life will be a celebration.
